OEKO-TEX Standard 100

It is an international product standard test from a textile testing institute.

It's a scientific test. Test for harmful residues in textile products such as yarn, fabric and various textile products.

It is a symbol that guarantees that There is no danger of residue in the product. Safety is divided into 4 levels according to the nature of use.

There are 4 levels of OEKO-TEX Standard 100 as follows:

Product Class I: Products for Babies are products suitable for infants from 0 - 36 months, all items except clothing made from leather.

Product Class II: Products with direct contact to skin are products that are used and come into direct contact with the skin, such as shirts and underwear.

Product Class III: Products without direct contact to skin are products that are used and do not come into direct contact with the skin, such as coats, jackets, exterior trim, lining fabric.

Product Class IV: Decoration Material is products used for decoration such as carpets, curtains, tablecloths.
